My Dear Friends,

It was feared that the Sochi race would be kind of boring.

Well, Ferrari for one did its bit to make it entertaining and exciting.

Right at the start, through the battle between Seb and Kimi, at every re-start after a Safety car period, at every daring passing move. True racing it was, and neither Kimi nor Seb ever gave up an inch, both pushing as hard as they could to bring home the best possible result.

Seb's pace was truly impressive, his second place being so well deserved.

It's a shame for Kimi, who should have come home a strong third, but from the race stewards, who didn't even allow him to finish fifth. His 30sec penalty pushed him back to 8th place.

So I thought of a TV show where the word was that "soccer is no sissy stuff" ... well, F1 isn't either, so thumbs up for Iceman showing his muscles in the race!

It's a fact that Hamilton won again, but for Sebastian, running as high as second in the championship is a result nobody could think of at the start of the season. Even if Nico always seems to get the worst of it...

Even at Sochi, I could see a sea of red caps and T-shirt.

I don't think we're going to open up a Fan Club here, but this gives us an idea of how special these red cars are, how special this team is, how special is this will to fight to the end.

Ciao Jules, Forza Ferrari!
